PETTIS. BASSETT &

From Pleasure to Prison.

Reuben Sexton was yesterday arrested on the charge of grand larceny. On Saturday he hired a horse and buggy of Charles Cook, liveryman, on South Pennsylvania street, for the purpose of taking his sweetheart out riding, as he expressed it. He failed to put in an appearance again at the stable, and no word was received as to his whereabouts until the authorities of Thorntown telegraphed that an unknown man, who was intoxicated, was driving around the town in what was supposed to be a stolen rig. He was arrested, and identified as the man who had procured the horse of Cook.

An Excursion to Chattanooga, Capt. E. T. Chaffee, of Greencastle, was in the city yesterday conferring with the railroads regarding an excursion which he is arranging for old soldiers to Chattanooga, Tenn., on the anniversary of the battle at that place. Captain Chaffee, a few years ago, conducted an excursion to Chattanooga from northern Indiana, which proved a great success.

A Distemper Among Horses. An affection which appears to be quite general among the horses of the city is occasioning some unessiness. The animals do not appear to be seriously sick, but all appear to be affected in the same way. The disease has something of the nature of pink-eye, but shows symptoms not always found with that distemper.

SOME OPINIONS ON LIGHT

Members of Council Not Satisfied with the Report of Their Committee.

A Comparison Between Gas and Electricity Is Offered, but the Whole Question Is Again Referred to a Special Meeting.

Only sixteen members of the Council were in their seats when the Mayor called the body to order at 8 o'clock last night, but the absentees nearly all came in later. The lobby was as large as usual, and before the meeting was called to order everybody seemed to have something to say about the public light question. which has been barrowing the councilmen for several months. The routine business was taken up by the opening of sealed proposals for city work. The only bids of interest were those for doing the city advertising for the ensuing year. There were but two bids. J. A. Dynes & Co., publishers of the South Side Gazette, agreed to publish the advertisements for 12 cents per square. The other bid, by the Indianapolis Sentinel Company, was 25 cents per square. On motion of Councilman Smith the bids were referred to the committee on contracts, with instructions to report at the next regular meeting. Over an hour was spent in reading the files of a large number of improvement ordinances. The important ones passed are as follows: To grade and pave with brick the east sidewalk of Blackford street, from New York to Michigan; the west side of Delaware, from New York to Vermont; Orange avenue with plank sidewalks, from Hillside to Brookside avenues; Illinois street, from Twelfth to north corporate limits; Lincoln avenue, from Central avenue to College avenue; the sidewalk of Newman street, from Hill avenue to Ninth street; Bates street, from Lynn to its terminus, Bates street and sidewalks, from Leota street to Lincoln street; sidewalks of Eighth street, from Tennessee to Mississippi; Gresham street side-walks, from East to Gray; the sidewalks of Fifth, from Illinois to Howard street, and First street

Sacking for More Light. The question of light for the streets of the city came up for consideration by the committee on public light submitting a report, which was very lengthy. It reviewed the four bids submitted, and contained lengthy statements from each of the members of the sub-committee that went East to examine the various electric-light systems. Three of the four members of the committee spoke of the Thompson-Houston light as the best proposed. The report then made the following

We would recommend that, in lieu of all bids, the We would recommend that, in lieu of all bids, the Mayor be instructed to enter into a contract with the Brush Electric Company, to place in the business portion of the city, under the direction of the committee on public light and city civil engineer, such a number of the Brush 2,000-candle power are lights as will displace 400 gas lamps, to the satisfaction of said committee and city engineer, said lamps to be furnished at the price named in their bid, $85, and to be lighted on a schedule of 2.740 hours; that the Mayor be instructed to enter into a contract with the Indianhighted on a schedule of 2.740 hours; that the Mayor be instructed to enter into a contract with the Indianapolis Gas-light and Coke Company, at the rate of $15 per lamp, to light all lamps of the city now lighted, and such others as may from time to time be added, except 400 lamps in the business portion of the city, which shall be designated by the committee on public light, to be extinguished and replaced with electric light. Both of said contracts to expire when the present contract with Vapor Light. to expire when the present contract with Vapor Light Company expires.

We make the recommendation for the following

reason:

First-The vapor-light contract has still more than two years to run, and if we should at present light the city by electricity, all the dark places not otherwise provided for would be furnished with the vapor light at $18 per post, whereas the gas would cost us light at $18 per post, whereas the gas would cost us but $15.

Second—While we regard the bid of the gas company as the lowest and best, the Council and Board of Aldermen have, heretofore, reserved the right to extinguish 300 lights for experiment with electric or other method of lighting, and as there is a desire on the part of some to light the business portion of the city with electricity, we regard the Brush company as the lowest and best bidder on electric lights, and believe that this method will practically light all of the business portion of the city with electric light.

Third—Ry the adentica of the method basis

Third—By the adoption of the method herein recommended all of the various contracts for lighting will expire at the same time and the city will have experimented with the electric light and will be able to judge of its practicability.

"If our recommendation be concurred in as above, without amendment, we would further recommend that if this recommendation is a second of the light and will be able to provide the second of the light and will be able to provide the second of the light and will be able to provide the light that if this proposition is not accepted by the Brush Electric-light Company, and the gas light and coke company within ten days that the contract be awarded to the Thompson-Houston company, as an entirety.' The report was signed by Messrs. Trusler, Markey and Fineh. It led to a long and tiresome discussion, in which nearly all the members took part. Councilman Smith began by asking what the annual cost of such a contract would be. Councilman Trusler, as chairman of the com-mittee, said each of the Brush are lights would equal five gas lights. Upon a basis of such an estimate it would require about eighty Brush lights to light the business portion of the city. That would cost $1.600. This, added to the cost of lighting the remainder of the city by the gas company, would aggregate a total cost of $40,360. Councilman Thalman moved that the report of the committee be concurred in, and Councilman Swain favored it but believed the report could have been improved. He thought the been definitely designated. He favored lighting all that territory between North, East, South Councilman Gasper opposed the report, and urged that a contract be made with the Jenney company, because, as he believed, it agreed to light the entire city at a stipulated sum, no matter how many lights it required. In answer to him, Councilman Trusler maintained that the Jenny company could not, under its bid, be required to light the whole city in a satisfactory manner. The bid was a jumble of words, and the company could not be required to light the alleys.

Councilman Pearson thought the locating of the electric lights should be left to the public-the electric lights should be left to the publiclight committee and city engineer. He thought the gas lamps should be displaced in the business portion of the city, and did not approve the plan suggested by Councilman Swain.

Councilman Hicklin thought the time had come when something should be done. The people were tired of asking: "What are you going to do about lighting the city?" One of two things should be done—the contract should be let according to the recommendation, or there should be a re-advertisement for bids. He did not believe the report was thoroughly just, but not believe the report was thoroughly just, but rather than delay the matter longer he would

Councilman Thalman believed the matter had been postponed long enough. The report dividing the contract was a good one. It would run about two years and nine months. By that time the people could judge of the efficiency of electric light, and if it proved a success the en-tire city could by that time be lighted by elec-

Councilman Smith believed the Jenny com-pany could, under its bid, be compelled to light the whole city to the satisfaction of the City Council for $42,000. He demanded the opinion of the city attorney on the point, and in response Mr. Taylor said the Jenny company's bid was very peculiarly worded. The city could compel the company to place a light at each street intersection, but it could not compel it to light the alleys. He could draw up a contract requiring the company to satisfactorily light the city, but he had no intimation that such a one would be accepted by the company.

Conneilman Kelley, who was a member of the sub-investigating committee, believed the Thompson-Houston light the best. He did not think that a Jenney light placed at the inter-section of each street would light the city satis-At the conclusion of his remarks the previous question was demanded, and Councilman Thal-man's motion to concur in the report was lost by a vote of 13 to 11, as follows: Yeas-Burns, Cummings, Davis, Finch, Hicklin, Kelley, Markey, Pearson, Thalman, Trusler, Wilson, Nays-Darnell, Dunn, Elliott, Gasper, Gaul, Johns-ton, Long, McClelland, O'Connor, Parkinson, Smith, Councilman Smith then moved to refer the whole matter to the committee on contracts, with instructions to report at a special meeting of the Council to be held next Monday evening. Councilman Trusler opposed the motion. He thought Council was ready to settle the question now. The members had as much information on the subject as they could get. He was not in favor of any further delay. Councilman Smith then withdrew his motion, and moved that the contract be awarded to the Jenney company. Councilman Pearson moved to lay Smith's motion on the table, and, after considerable discussion, the motion to lay on the table prevailed by a vote of 16 to 8, as follows: Yeas-Burns, Cummings, Darnell, Davis, Dunn, Finch, Gaul, Hicklin, Markey, McClelland, Pearson, Stuckmeyer, Swain, Thalman, Trusler, Wilson. Nays-Elliott, Gasper, Johnston, Kelley, Long, O'Con-nor, Parkinson, Smith.

Councilman Cummings then moved to award the contract to the Thompson-Houston company on the all-night schedule. Councilman Thalman opposed the motion because the company was the highest bidder. He did not believe 600 lights would light the city, and even that number, at the price per light demanded by the com-pany, would cost the city much more than any one anticipated. He thought the Council by giving the contract to the gas company would save as much as by any action it could take. He, therefore, moved to lay the Cummings motion on the table, and he was sustained by a vote of twenty to three. Those who voted against the motion were Mesers. Cummings, Kelley and McClelland.

A motion offered by Conneilman Gasper, that all the bids be referred to the committee on contracts, with instructions that a report be made at a special meeting of the Council to be held next Thursday night, was tabled by a vote of 14 to 10, as follows:

Yeas-Burns, Cummings, Davis, Finch, Gaul Hicklin, Kelley, Long, Markey, Pearson, Swain, Thal-man, Trusler, Wilson, Nays-Darnell, Dunn, El-liott, Gasper, Johnston, McClelland, O'Connor, Par-kinson, Smith, Stuckmeyer,

Councilman Swain, hoping that the question might be settled before adjournment, offered a resolution providing for awarding a contract to the Brush company for one hundred and fifty 2,000-candle power are lights, to be located in the central part of the city, and one to the gas company for lighting the remainder of the city at $15 per post. The resolution met opposition from those who opposed the report of the committee, and a motion by Councilman Long to lay it on the table prevailed by a vote of 14 to 10, as follows: Yeas—Darnell, Davis, Dunn, Elliott, Gasper, Gaul, Johnston, Long, McClelland, O'Connor, Parkinson, Smith, Stuckmeyer, Wilson. Nays—Burns, Cum-mings, Finch, Hicklin, Kelley, Markey, Pearson, Swain, Thalman, Trusler.

It being evident that neither company bidding had votes enough to secure the contract, Councilman Thalman moved that all the bids be refered back to the committee on public light, and that the members of the committee confer with the Jenney company and ascertain if it would light the alleys under its bid to light the entire city for $42,000. A number of substitutes were offered to Councilman Thaiman's motion. Councilman McClelland moved that the contract be awarded to the Brush on the moonlight schedule, and Councilman Hicklin wanted the same company to have the contract on the all-night schedule. Both substitutes were tabled, and the Thalman motion then passed by a vote of 15 to 9, as follows:

Yeas-Burns, Cummings, Darnell, Davis, Dunn, Finch, Gaul, Hicklin, Markey, McClelland, Pearson, Stuckmeyer, Swain, Thaiman, Wilson, Nays-Elliott, Gasper, Johnston, Kelley, Long, O'Connor, Parkin-son, Smith, Trusler. The Council adjourned at 11:30 o'clock to meet in special session next Monday evening to renew consideration of the question.

The Young Voters Are to Organize a Strong Club for Campaign Service.

It Is Proposed to Make the Harrison Club Permanent Institution-The Democratic Committee Troubled by Coy's Gang.

The young men of the city who will cast their first vote in the coming election partially organized a Harrison and Morton club last night, the meeting for that purpose being held in the Superior Court-room No. 3. The room was full, representatives from all the city wards being in attendance. A regular constitution was adopted, which limits the membership to young men of the city between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-five. Over a hundred names were placed on the roll, and great confidence was expressed by many that after a permanent organization is effected every ward will send as many to the club as signed last evening. A number of young men living on the South Side pledged the hearty support of the various neighborhoods they came from, saying that had last night's meeting been more extensively advertised a large attendance would have been secured. No regular name was adopted, but this will be decided upon at the next meeting. Permanent officers were elected as follows: President, William R. Williams, of the Sun; vice-presidents, H. J. Phillips and William H. Pray; secretary, Charles L. Thurber, and treasurer, W. B. McMurray. While the committee for permanent organization was out, Hon. Stanton J. Peelle, who was in attendance in another part of the building at the meeting of the Harrison Club, was given a cordial invitation to come in and make a few remarks to the young men. As he entered the court-room he was greeted with three cheers and prolonged applause. He said that he had cast his first vote in 1864 for Abraham Lincoln. but as his State [Kentucky] was in an unsettled condition her vote was not counted in the electoral college. From his earliest youth he had been raised in a family of Democratic faith, his father voting with the Democracy until 1864, when he too voted for Lincoln. Mr. Peelle's earliest remembrance of politics was in 1856, when the famous ash poles were being raised all over the country, and from that time on he believed in Republican principles, actuated princi-pally by their sound doctrine on the slavery question. The struggles of the party for the last twenty-five years have demonstrated to the world its ability to govern this Nation. They teach all broad-minded men that its principles are the safest for the foundation of a republic. Great questions were handled in the past quarter of a century, and they were satisfactorily set-tled. But to-day another question is before the people, and that is shall America legislate for Americal Shall the institutions, built up under the careful and judicious management of the Republican party, be now left to to the dictates of the Democratic element and to foreign manufacture? The main issue of the oncoming campaign is the tariff question. Both great parties are in favor of a tariff reform, but the supremacy of Democratic principles means death to American industries. Their clamors for free trade means free trade only when it affects their own interests. The speaker then entered into a brief but concise discussion of the question of tariff re-form, closing with a reference to General Harrison as a man and as a statesman. His ability and integrity are conceded, even by his political enemies, and the only point on which men disagree is his strong adherence to the Republican party. Three rousing cheers were again given for General Harrison, and, after deciding upon every Tuesday evening as the regular time of meeting, and upon next Friday evening for a special business meeting, the club adjourned. The Harrison Club. The Harrison Club met last night in the Criminal Court-room, with H. H. Hanns in the chair and B. A. Richardson as secretary. The object of the meeting was to receive the report of the executive committee and of the treasurer as to the work that had been done so far, and also to consider the future work of the club. The club was organized, in the first place, to seeure Gen. eral Harrison's nomination at Chicago. This object having been attained, it was held by some of the members that the club should either disband or else change its name to the Harrison and Morton Club. Some insisted that its members could do more effective work by acting with the ward clubs, while others held that there was plenty of room for general and ward organizations, and that there need be no conflict between them. After a warm discussion, it was decided to continue under the present name and not to cease its work until General Harrison is seated in the White House. The president will appoint a committee of nine to arrange a plan for future work. The club then adjourned to meet next Monday night. The Democratic Factions. Behind the curtain there is a painful lack of cheerfulness in Democratic management. As long as Colonel Rice was formulator of plans and director of resources, and Colonel Coy saw Mrs. Henry Jameson and daughters Eunice | to keeping the gang in line, Si Sheerin and Ed and Augusta will return the last of this week | Hawkins, the latter an offensive partisan in the United States Marshal's office, did not have much to do in taking care of the affairs of the party except as advisers. But with Colonel Rice turned capitalist, real estate speculator and natural-gas promoter, and Colonel Coy in the penitentiary the management has changed. Sheerin and Hawkins, having supported the alleged innocence of the Coy tally-sheet forgers until they saw it was no longer possible to make the people believe in it, think they the people believe in it, think they are managing the State committee with a policy of political virtue which found its first expression in forcing the discharge of Albert F. Ayres from its clerical force. They regard Ayres as the exponent of Coyism, and hence did not want him around, although it has not been many months ago when both Sheerin and Hawkins would have saved if they could the little boss from suffering the life of a convict for crimes he had committeed in the interest of their party. But Coy in penitentiary stripes and Coy as master of the gang are two different individuals. Ayres, however, does not have individuals. Ayres, however, does not have any importance except that he is a Coyite, but in forcing Chairman Jewett to discharge him from a beggarly position in the committee rooms Sheerin and Hawkins have made rooms Sheerin and Hawkins have made him an issue between a once controlling faction that was responsible for tally-sheet forgers, and a faction that would like control affairs on a line that limit irregularities, slick work and political trickery to a lavish outlay of money. "That will be the strength of Democratic work in this campaign," said one of the party yesterday. "Money will be relied upon to keep the gang in line. It has already been tried, but the new managers will find that the boys' feeling for Coy or any one he favored is stronger than mere money consideration. Lukewarm at the outset, they became disgruntled at the discharge of Ayres, and propose to take but little interest in the campaign."

"You do not have much hope of your party's success?" the reporter asked.

"I have none. This county will certainly go Republican, and as for this State, the Democrats will have up-hill work trying to carry it. The odds are all against them. Two years ago the only spirit and money thrown into the campaign came from the gang. John E. Sullivan paign came from the gang. John E. Sullivan gave the local Democracy more money two years ago than the State committee had. He spent $10,000 on his election. Tom Taggart supplemented this with $6,000, and these two sums aggregated four times the money the State committee handled. But the State committee says this year that it will have plenty, and proposes to atone for the discharge of Ayres and the leaving of Coy, Sullivan and others to condemnation by casting the dellars around, but that will not satisfy the boys. The committee has already found that out, and has been forced to negotiate with the gang to give Ayres forced to negotiate with the gang to give Ayres some place about the committee rooms. The Democrats can not carry this State without having everything in Marion county in good trim. and that they will not have this campaign; for the men who have achieved the successes heretofore and now receive only contumely for what they have done will, to a great extent, be quiet during the campaign. The committee may restore Ayers, but that will be of no effect. The ill feeling will still exist between the factions."

Notes of the Situation. Preliminary steps were taken yesterday to organize a railroad men's Harrison and Morton Club at Peoria, Ill. The work of organizing a railroad men's Harrison and Morton Club at Terre Haute was begun Saturday night, and at noon yesterday 180 men had been enrolled, every one a voter.

The Voter and His Wages.

New York Times. The average voter has no interest in all the arguments of all the political economists so long as mills are busy, markets brisk, and wages high. He does not care whether the duty on foreign-made cloth is 9 cents a yard or 90, so long as he has money to buy clothing; and when he compares the condition of the English laborer with that of the American workingman earning twice as much wages for an equal amount and quality of work, he sees no reason for over-turning the industrial system of the United States to remodel it after Great Brirain.
